NOT THE BOSS.

The Peculiar Experience of Christopher Buckley

"I'll tell you what it is, Chris," remarked Mrs. Buckley to her new husband the other evening, "you might as well learn right here that although you may boss the city of San Francisco and the State of California, you are not going to boss me."

"I am in the habit of being obeyed," said Mr. Buckley firmly, "and my word is law in this section."

"It may be when it comes to State Conventions and ward meetings, but not when it comes to deciding the sort of bonnets I am going to wear. You may not approve of this sort of a bonnet, but I do, and what's more I'm going to have it that way."

"I guess we hadn't better have any split over the matter; I'm willing to accept any sort of a fair compromise," was the Bosses reply.

"Compromise nothing! Did you ever hear of the Hurly family compromising with anybody? Compromise! I'd like to see the man I'd compromise with on an important question like that. You want to boss the earth, but no man that's on the top of God's footstool ever attempted to boss me, and no man ever will."

"Well, my dear, I guess you'd better run it your own way," answered the Boss meekly. "I guess I'll go down to head quarters and fix up the State ticket for this Fall."

"You'll do nothing of the kind. The State ticket can keep a day or two, I guess."

"But my dear I have an engagement with several parties who wish to run as Justices of the Supreme Court."

"Well, let 'em run. I can't have you trotting about town at their beck and call."

"You don't understand, my dear, they are coming to meet me."

"Well, let 'em wait till tomorrow; I want you to stay here and talk to me this afternoon. Telephone to the Supreme Judges to call again."

"All right, my dear."

"Then I want you to put my cousin Tom in some fat position in the city right away."

"But he's an out and out Republican, my dear."

"So am I, but that needn't make any difference, I want him there and that settles it."

"But the boys will kick."

"Let 'em kick. If they kick, send 'em to me."

"All right my dear, I guess I'll have to fix it."

BUFFALO BEER.—Leslie B. B. shield a dozen bottles of Buffalo Beer into this office yesterday. The APPEAL has always been a temperate paper and never drinks beer, but this comes so highly recommended that the regular rule of the office will be broken.

After three years of paperless existence Candelaria comes out with a new paper published by W. W. Booth, called "The Chloride Bell." It shows that the town is awake again and booming. In a little town in Mexico a city ordinance has been passed compelling persons working inside the city limits to wear pants on the public streets. The tyrannical ordinance is being resisted by those who cannot afford the extra clothes.

WHAT ON EARTH.—Is the reason people will not, cannot, or do not see any difference in cheap trousers put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at equal price? No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as BEGG'S BLOOD PURIFIER & BLOOD MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work, will cost you nothing.—W. H. Chedie Druggist.

WANTED.—A woman to do general house-work.

WAS IT SPIRITUALISM?

The Discovery of Faucett's Body Attributable to "Spook" Manifestations.

It appears that the body of Miles Faucett, the victim of the Pottses, was discovered, or at least the discovery was led to, by remarkable phenomena in the house where he came to his death. After the tragedy and the disappearance of the Pottses, Mr. Geo. Brewer, Lamolle valley, rented and moved into the house with his family.

The family were soon disturbed by rappings on doors and ghostly footsteps crossed the room at night and pickle jars and bottles were continually upset in the cellar. The manifestations were so pronounced that the Brewer concluded to investigate. After probing about with an iron rod he found a soft spot, under where some shelves had been erected in the cellar. Further investigation led to the discovery of the remains of a human being that had been covered up in a hole at the side of the cellar. The remains were all cut to pieces, the head charred and fleshless, having been chopped up and burned. The legs, arms and body were in small pieces and beyond recognition. The only thing that remained to tell the tale was the half-burned pocket of the murdered man's pants, in which was found an old knife. This was recognized as belonging to Miles Faucett.

A GREAT COMPANY COMING.—"Held By the Enemy" the great romantic military drama, will be presented at the Carson opera house on Friday evening next. The company which will be seen in Mr. Wm. Gillett's play is made up of the same ladies and gentlemen whose work contributed so much to the popular triumph of "Held By the Enemy" in New York City. The role of Col. Prescott remains in the hands of that favorite actor, Ma. James Wilson, who has been so long identified with the part, and it is doubtful if a more handsome and striking personality than his, as the brave and dashing officer, could be found.

Miss Adele Belgarde, who is regarded as one of the best leading women in New York, and who possesses that forceful quality of work which brings absorbing interest to all she does, will be seen in the part of Rachel McCreery. Miss Belgarde is as charming and fetching in person as able and talented in her work upon the stage.

County vs. State.

Yesterday the attention of the Justice Court was taken up for the afternoon with the case of Ormsby Co. vs. State of Nevada, for $298 75 expenses incurred in the special election. The "expenses" which the State Board refused to pay were for the bills of the APPEAL and Tribune and those of the Sheriff and County Clerk. The Court announced that it would render the decision at two o'clock today.

HOW CAN PARENTS.—Allow their children to cough and calmly say: "Oh! its only a little cold," and keep giving them cheap medicines, until they are down with lung fever or consumption, when they can be so easily relieved by using BEGG'S CHERRY COUGH SYRUP. It has no superior and few equals. W. H. Chedie, Druggist.

COUGH! AND COUGH! AND COUGH!—What in the world is the reason you will cough and keep coughing and still keep trying inferior medicines when BEGG'S CHERRY COUGH SYRUP will positively relieve your cough at once? This is no advertising scheme, but an actual fact, and we guarantee it. W. H. Chedie, Druggist.
